

The Cincinnati Steam Baseball Club proudly supports amateur baseball at its highest level in the Greater Cincinnati area. The student/athletes that play for the Steam are enrolled in NCAA schools and have NCAA eligibility. The goal of this organization is to provide these student/athletes an opportunity to develop their baseball skills in one of America's top-rated summer leagues surrounded by the finest coaches and administrators. We ask for your support!

"The Best Place to Play Summer Baseball in the Country".

The Great Lakes Summer Collegiate League is one of America's top rated summer leagues. The level of competition, the quality of coaching, and outstanding opportunities have made the league an attractive summertime destination for America's best college baseball players. Founded in 1987, the intent of the league is to provide student athletes the opportunity to improve their baseball skills in a competitive summer baseball league made up of college baseball players exclusively. The league is currently one of ten members of the National Alliance of Summer Collegiate Baseball and is partially funded by Major League Baseball. Wooden bats are used to allow professional scouts to better judge the players.
